

changethemold.com

Canus Goat's Milk

25-Oct-09

Canus Goat's Milk

www.canusgoatsmilk.com

I don't really know why I gravitate toward products made from goat's milk. But, I do. I much prefer cheese made from goat's milk to cheese made from cow's milk. And, I just love soap that contains goat's milk. In fact, I adore the soap made by Canus Goat's Milk.

Way back in 1994, two friends from Montreal decided the world would be a whole lot softer if more people washed with soap made from fresh goat's milk. Thus began Canus, and in just a few short years, their original triple-milled bar grew into the second largest selling soap in all of Canada.

The company now makes a host of different products.

Andree Falardeau and Andre Beauregard figured they were on to something. Pretty soon, Canus was making fresh goat's milk body wash, fresh goat's moisturizer, fresh goat's milk body butter and foot scrub. All in all, there are now more than 90 Canus Goat's Milk and L'll Goat's Milk Products. Plus the new Nature's Dog line of fresh goat's milk canine shampoo and delicious goat's milk dog treats. After all, four-legged friends deserve the benefits of goat's milk as much as us bi—peds.

While Andre remained in Montreal, Andree moved to Vermont to establish a U.S. headquarters.

Today, the charming Canus goat illustration smiles back at customers from the shelves of major mass retail and drug store chains, supermarkets and specialty stores through the lower 48. Of course, none of this could have happened without the thousands of dedicated, hard-working goats and the family farms that take such good care of them and deliver their milk to Canus. Ultimately, the Company's success will be defined not only by how much product we sell but also by how we make it and by how many people's lives get better along the way. This means continuously improving our sustainability practices and sourcing natural, responsible grown and harvested botanical ingredients whenever possible. It also means giving back, and supporting employees who want to make a difference in their local communities. We're very big on volunteerism and fund-raising.

Among the organizations Canus supports are Heifer International, Komen Race for the Cure, Strolling of the Heifers, University of Vermont Small Ruminant Center, and Friends of Boston's Homeless.

ShareThis

Filed in Uncategorized || Comments \(0\) »